The OT Background of the Two Witnesses in Revelation 11

In the Book of Revelation, chapter 11, two prophetic witnesses are described. Most scholars agree that they should probably be understood as Moses and Elijah. The description of them is, however, vague and seems to include traditions beyond the Hebrew Bible. In my paper, I will examine the identification of these two figures and discuss the background of the traditions about them that are reflected in Revelation 11.